Period ticket comparisons

As noted in the introduction, prices are affected by a number of factors, including topography, and population mix and density. An interesting comparison can be made of First bus fares in South Hampshire.

The two cities of Portsmouth and Southampton have strong retail centres, with a dense population including large numbers of students. The area in between, principally centred on the towns of Fareham and Gosport, has lower density housing and significant out of town retail. These different conditions have resulted in different fare levels between all three locations.
