Summary

To calculate the energy savings and the potential CAPEX, the three scenarios below were considered:

Scenario 1

In this scenario, the specific consumption (kWh/m2) of each building is compared against the CIBSE energy benchmark. The energy savings derive from the variance between actual consumption and benchmark. When a building is found better than CIBSE's benchmark, 30% energy savings are considered for both electricity and fossil fuel consumption.

Scenario 2

In this scenario, the total savings are estimated to be 50% of the given values for both fossil fuel and electricity consumption.

Boiler replacement vs. Low Carbon Heating

In the first scenario, all old boilers in buildings where natural gas is the primary heat source are replaced. The savings depend on the existing boiler's age as described in the assumptions. New boilers are considered 95% efficient. However please note that if low carbon technologies such as heat pumps are used to displace the gas, this budget cost should be doubled. In order to calculate the energy savings of this low carbon heating initiative
